Every attempt made through carrying out the outings' procedure and the exit/entrance procedure to ensure the security of children maintain at all times. In the unlikely event of a child going missing, our missing child procedure followed.

Procedures

Child going missing on the premises

- As soon as it is noticed that a child is missing the key person/staff alerts the Principal. If principal is way deputy takes charge
- The Principal will carry out a thorough search of the building and garden.
- The register is check to make sure no other child has also gone astray.
- Doors and gates are check to see if there a breach of security whereby a child could wander out.
- If the child not found, contacted the parent and the missing child is reported to the police. Staff follow instructions of police.
- The Principal talks to the staff to find out when and where they last seen the child and records this.
- After the event, the Principal and committee representative write a report and review risk assessment to minimise any further risks. Where relevant Disciplinary action taken.

Child going missing on an outing

- As soon as it is notice that a child is missing, staff on the outing ask children to stand with their designated person and carry out a headcount to ensure that no other child has gone astray. One staff member searches the immediate vicinity but does not search beyond that.
- Contact the Principal immediately and report the incident. If principle is away deputy takes charge.
- The Principal contacts the police and reports the child as missing.
- The Principal contacts the parent, who makes their way to the setting or outing venue as agreed with the Principal. The setting is advice as the best place, as by the time the parent arrives; the child may have been return to the setting.
- Staff take the remaining children back to the setting.
- In an indoor / outdoor venue, the staff contact the venue's security who will handle the search and contact the police if the child not found.
- The Principal, or designated staff member may be advice by the police to stay at the venue until they arrive.

The investigation

- Staff keep calm and do not let the other children become anxious or worried.
- The Principal speaks with the parent(s).
- The Principal carries out a full investigation taking written statements from all the staff in the room or the ones who were on the outing.
- The key person/staff member writes an incident report detailing:

- The date and time of the report.
- What staff/children were in the group/outing and the name of the staff designated responsible for the missing child.
- When the child last seen in the group/outing.
- What has taken place in the group or outing since the child went missing.
- The time estimated that the child went missing.
- A conclusion drawn as to how the breach of security happened.
- If the incident warrants a police investigation, all staff co-operate fully. In this case, the police will handle all aspects of the investigation, including interviewing staff. Children's Social Care may be involved if it seems likely that there is a child protection issue to address.
- In the event of disciplinary action is taken, Ofsted is informed.
- The insurance provider is informed.
- After the event, the Principal and committee representative write a report and review risk assessment to minimise any further risks. Disciplinary action is taken where relevant.

Managing people

- Missing child incidents are very worrying for all concerned. Part of managing the incident is to try to keep everyone as calm as possible.
- The staff will feel worried about the child, especially the key person or the designated carer responsible for the safety of that child for the outing. They may blame themselves and their feelings of anxiety and distress will rise as the length of time the child is missing increases.
- Staff may be the understandable target of parental anger and they may be afraid. Setting leaders need to ensure that staff under investigation are not only fairly treated but also supported while feeling vulnerable.
- The parents will feel angry, and fraught. They may want to blame staff and may single out one staff member over others; they may direct their anger at the Principal. When dealing with a distraught and angry parent, there should always be two members of staff, one of whom is the Principal and the other should be a representative of the management committee. No matter how understandable the parent's anger may be, aggression or threats against staff are not tolerate, and the police is call.
- The other children are also sensitive to what is going on around them. They too may be worried. The remaining staff caring for them need to be focus on their needs and must not discuss the incident in front of them. They should answer children's questions honestly but also reassure them.
- In accordance with the severity of the outcome, staff may need counselling and support. If a child not found, or is injured, or worse, this will be a very difficult time.
- Staff must not discuss any missing child incident with the press without taking advice, as any press contact has to be only with the committee/Principal.
- For the children 5 years and under our policy statement keeps the following EYFS key themes and commitments as the focus
